Asteral on target to boost core team

Asteral, the UK's leading vendor-independent Managed Equipment Services provider, has made a number of new hires to strengthen its central team.

New recruits include financial analyst Sid Agarwal, office manager Claire Hoskings and accountant Kees Kooiker.

Sid joins Asteral from a private equity firm and brings expertise in building complex financial models which will ensure Asteral continues to deliver value for money for clients as well as adhering to Treasury and Government guidelines.

Claire, who will oversee the smooth running of Asteral's headquarters, brings a wealth of administrative experience and in her spare time is a keen archer. And Kees brings almost 30 years of accountancy experience to Asteral and will play a central role in managing Asteral's accounts.

Commenting on the new recruits Asteral's Managing Director, David Rolfe, said "we are always looking to exceed our clients' expectations and part of that is a strong core, which will be boosted by all of our latest recruits."
